Facilitating by Heart

A series—to teach team leaders, committee chairs, supervisors, and other group leaders the facilitation skills/tools to support groups in working productively and collaboratively while honoring the voices of all group members.
Facilitating by Heart

Facilitating by heart implies that one has all the tools and skills that are needed to facilitate with comfort and proficiency, from memory or “by heart.” It also means that the facilitator brings a strong sense of integrity and authenticity to the situation: paying mindful attention to the work of the heart. Someone who facilitates by heart not only cares about getting the task accomplished, s/he also cares about how the work gets done. A facilitator by heart is able to “read the pulse” of the group to sense what individuals need and what the group needs as a whole in order to work productively and collaboratively.

The series supports you in learning how to:

• Create inclusive environments that encourage multiple perspectives and full participation of all group members.
• Understand and capitalize on group members’ learning patterns.
• Use centering to find the mental/emotional clarity to respond effectively to group process.
• Listen without judgment to understand others’ perspectives.
• Ask questions that foster shared understanding.
• Work successfully with conflict to achieve more innovative, sustainable solutions.
• Use practical tools for effective agenda-setting, decision-making, and managing data.

You learn in a safe, collaborative learning community where you can bring your full self to the learning experience. Your instructors use interactive facilitation methods that address all learning styles. You experience teaching methods such as dialogue, self-reflection, experiential activities, theory, case studies, modeling, coaching, practice using the skills and tools, and fun.

The series is limited to 24 participants so you feel comfortable participating and your specific needs are met by individual feedback and support.

Please note: your attendance is required at all sessions. The series is sequential, with each session building on the skills and tools taught in the previous session. It is not an option to pick and choose which sessions to attend—you must attend them all.

“Facilitating by Heart is the best integrated series of workshops that I have attended. The facilitators have unique styles that bring together people from diverse backgrounds into an uncommon learning and growing community. I recommend this experience to anyone who helps a group of people move together toward a mutual outcome.”

DEBORAH THIES, PROGRAM COORDINATOR, BIRTH TO THREE CONNECTIONS, UNITED CEREBRAL PALSY OF GREATER DANE COUNTY

“This is a vital set of skills for anyone in a leadership role to have. The tools and techniques shared in this course are pure gold.”

STEPHANIE SOBCZAK, PROJECT MANAGER, UW HEALTH, THE AMERICAN CENTER HOSPITAL
SESSION 1
April 12-13, 2016
Building the Learning Community, Facilitation Model, Agenda-Setting

We model how to create an effective work group as we establish a learning community. Discover the importance of maintaining balance between the dynamics of task and process, as well as their implications for group development stages and agenda design. You also have the opportunity to prepare a meeting agenda to use in your organization.

Learn how to:
• Create group agreements to establish a productive work climate.
• Apply a model for the stages of group development.
• Design outcome-based agendas with clearly defined purposes.
• Select multi-modal processes to enhance participation and achieve agenda outcomes.

"Facilitating by Heart uses a comfortable progression and variety of learning methods to help us better understand our facilitator roles and create space for more authentic, richer, fuller communication. This is no ordinary seminar—expect a life changing and sustained positive change in how you relate to others."

TOM PUCHALSKI – PRIVATE WATER ENFORCEMENT COORDINATOR, WI DNR

SESSION 2
May 10-11, 2016
Utilizing Different Learning Patterns

The Perceptual Thinking Patterns PTP™ model is a concrete tool that teaches how people learn, process, and communicate. Learn how to use visual, kinesthetic, and auditory methods to accomplish the tasks of organizing, integrating, and creating information. In order to support effective group processes, facilitators need to understand how people with the six different patterns approach these tasks.

Learn how to:
• Learn how our minds use visual, auditory, and kinesthetic modalities to organize, process, and create
• Discover which of the six patterns matches the way your mind learns and communicates
• Explore the biases, gifts, and challenges of each of the six patterns
• Discover ways to create mutual adaptations between different thinking patterns and the benefits of diverse perspectives

“I can’t express in words what this series has done for me both personally and professionally. Kathy and Denise, you are making the world a better place 25 people at a time.”

ERIC BANGERTER, VP OF E-COMMERCE, VW CREDIT UNION
SESSION 3
July 12-13, 2016

Centering, Deep Listening, and Skillful Questioning

Centering, the ability to remain grounded, reflective, and attentive to what is happening in the moment, is a foundation skill that can strengthen your ability as a facilitator. When you facilitate from center, you are better equipped to perceive group process and take actions that will support the members’ needs.

The ability to listen intently with your whole self is another essential skill. Effective facilitators recognize when people are operating from assumptions and use non-judgmental questions to help clarify perspectives and foster shared understanding of the issues.

Learn how to:

- Use a tool for checking out assumptions before they escalate into conflict.
- Discern between observable data vs. “spin.”
- Center to access your best thinking and engage with integrity.
- Use encouraging responses and questions of inquiry to elicit and understand different perspectives.

SESSION 4
September 13-14, 2016

Transforming Conflict

Many people want to avoid conflict, yet it is a natural aspect of group dynamics. When handled with integrity, the energy of conflict can be used to improve trust and communication among group members. When all group members’ perspectives are honored and common ground is achieved, work relationships can be enhanced and more innovative, lasting solutions can be found.

In this session, you have an opportunity to reflect on your attitudes and behaviors in conflict and increase your comfort in working effectively with conflict.

Learn how to:

- Examine the impact of your history with conflict on your current responses to it.
- Distinguish among the four basic responses to conflict.
- Excavate beyond positions to identify and express underlying needs.
- Find common ground and generate win-win solutions.

“This series has given the participants from my company skills and take-away materials that are immediately applicable. The effect has been tremendous personal and professional growth. There has been a positive ripple effect in our organization among the people we work with.”

ROB VAN NEVEL, SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT AND CHIEF MEMBER SOLUTIONS OFFICER, UW CREDIT UNION

“Facilitating by Heart is filled with wisdom, humor, and a great deal of compassion. I have facilitated groups for many years and highly recommend it for experienced or beginning facilitators. It is a rich and rewarding course, offering extensive content and tools to encourage individual exploration, application, and enhancement of professional facilitation expertise.”

CLAIRE BOX, LAY LEADER, FIRST UNITARIAN SOCIETY, RETIRED NURSING FACULTY, UW-MADISON AND EDGEWOOD COLLEGE
SESSION 5
October 11-12, 2016

Decision-Making, Facilitation Feedback

One of the biggest challenges work groups face is in making effective decisions. In day one, you’ll learn how to address the tension between closure and further exploration, create shared understanding of the problem, and facilitate lasting solutions.

Day two will be an opportunity to synthesize and practice everything you’ve learned. You’ll receive concrete, practical feedback on your facilitation skills. You’ll explore how to address resistance in the workplace and how to build support for ongoing application of your new skills/tools.

Learn how to:

- Understand the benefits of an explicit decision-making rule.
- Assess the pros and cons of different decision-making rules.
- Use a tool to discern the level of agreement.
- Apply your learning to designing and facilitating a group meeting.

“Thank you for the thoughtfulness and care that goes into this series. Your passion is clear and contributes to the feeling that we too can make change in our organizations.”

GINI KNIGHT, COMMUNITY FOOD STRATEGIST, CENTER FOR ENVIRONMENTAL FARMING SYSTEMS, NORTH CAROLINA STATE UNIVERSITY

“This is the best use of professional development funds I’ve ever had. I’ve never felt more supported and cared for in my learning process.”

JOLENE ESTERLINE, AREA COORDINATOR, UNIVERSITY HOUSING, UW-MADISON

“This series was very hands-on and a great opportunity to observe, practice, reflect, and learn. The experience and intent the leaders brought to the sessions made all the difference.”

CRAIG MAIER – COORDINATOR, TALLGRASS PRAIRIE & OAK SAVANNA FIRE SCIENCE CONSORTIUM

“I appreciate the care and thoughtfulness Kathy and Denise bring to this work! I have been able to directly incorporate what I have learned into my daily work. This has truly been a great experience.”

MEGAN SCHMID, ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR, MADISON TEACHING AND LEARNING EXCELLENCE, UW-MADISON

“Your instructors have more than 55 years of combined experience in teaching, facilitating, and consulting with educational, human service, healthcare, governmental, and business organizations. They specialize in communication skills, team development, conflict transformation, diversity/inclusivity, and perceptual thinking patterns.

Kathy Germann has facilitated trainings on a broad range of human relations issues since 1982. She’s taught on three college campuses, been a manager in two non-profits, and served as an ad hoc instructor for UW-Madison for more than 20 years. Kathy brings a deep sense of passion and a healthy sense of humor to her work.

Denise Jess has facilitated trainings on a wide range of human relations issues since the mid-1980s. She taught in a learner-centered classroom for 11 years and has authored published curricula. Denise is deeply committed to supporting learners in creating inclusive environments where the voices of all members are respected.

“Thank you for the thoughtfulness and care that goes into this series. Your passion is clear and contributes to the feeling that we too can make change in our organizations.”

GINI KNIGHT, COMMUNITY FOOD STRATEGIST, CENTER FOR ENVIRONMENTAL FARMING SYSTEMS, NORTH CAROLINA STATE UNIVERSITY

“This is the best use of professional development funds I’ve ever had. I’ve never felt more supported and cared for in my learning process.”
