What is the value of the University of Wisconsin–Madison Conference on Child Sexual Abuse?

I will increase my knowledge of the very latest evidence—based information on treatment, intervention, assessment, and prevention.

With more than 50 institutes and workshops to choose from, you can create a custom experience specific to your organizational needs.

I will improve my skills specific to working with sexually abused children, adults who were abused as children, and offenders.

Social workers, counselors, therapists, educators, legal professionals—or anyone who deals with child sexual abuse—will benefit from the diversity of experiences and perspectives of both the speakers and faculty as well as other participants.

I will have the opportunity to learn from and network with nationally renowned speakers conveniently located in Madison, WI.

Programs are taught by highly qualified, credentialed experts in the fields of psychology, psychiatry, social work, law, medicine, training, and other disciplines relevant to child abuse and protection services.

As I learn the best practices in assessment and treatment, I will be better able to do my job—and to serve the clients I work with.

By attending the UW–Madison Conference on Child Sexual Abuse, you will learn how to develop and apply effective assessment methods and how to explore best practices treatment methods with a confidence that you can apply immediately to your practice.
What do past participants think about the UW–Madison Conference on Child Sexual Abuse?

This is the best conference in mental health I have attended in 20 years. I will be speaking with my local county mental health workers and child protection workers to try and get them to attend. Thank you so very much. —Dan D.

This was one of the best conferences I have been to in my career. —Katie A., Iowa

This was my first year and one of the best conferences I have ever attended! Every session provided very valuable information. —Penelope D., Milwaukee, WI
