Learn about introducing change with Peter Steinke, internationally known author and consultant.

A Door Set Open: Grounding Change in Mission and Hope

Discover how change can lead to a time of fresh opportunities.

Tuesday, May 15, 2012
9 am – 3 pm
The Pyle Center, 702 Langdon St., UW-Madison campus
Cost: $140

In this one-day seminar based on his new book, congregational consultant and author Peter Steinke explores the relationship between the challenges of change and our responses to new ideas and experiences. He believes that if you fortify our response to change with hope, congregations can enter an era of great opportunity. The door can be set open for exploration and new opportunity.

You’ll learn how to:
• discern the challenges of today’s church in a new context
• understand the connection between emotional systems and change
• explore ways of relating to the new context

Peter Steinke is the developer of NEW VISIONS, a learning experience to increase mission awareness and action in congregations. He is a bestselling author and has been serving as a consultant to congregations for more than 20 years.

Register easily online at: www.dcs.wisc.edu/pda/clergy or by phone: 608-262-2451 or 800-725-9692
A Door Set Open: Grounding Change in Mission and Hope

Prepare for leading change with internationally known author and consultant Peter Steinke.

Tuesday, May 15, 2012

This seminar helps you work with your congregation to rethink how to best serve its mission. You’ll be ready to deal with the challenges when you bring new ideas and experiences to your group. The instructor, Peter Steinke, helps you explore how change can lead to exciting opportunities for your group. Join us for this special seminar!

You’ll go back to your congregation with:

- an understanding of how emotions impact change
- a different perspective on the challenges of today’s church
- strategies for relating to the new context.

Contact Ann Whitaker for more information:
awhitaker@dcs.wisc.edu

Register online today! www.dcs.wisc.edu/pda/clergy or by phone: 608-262-2451 or 800-725-9692